

OASI DI LA THUILE
SCALA 1 : 25.000

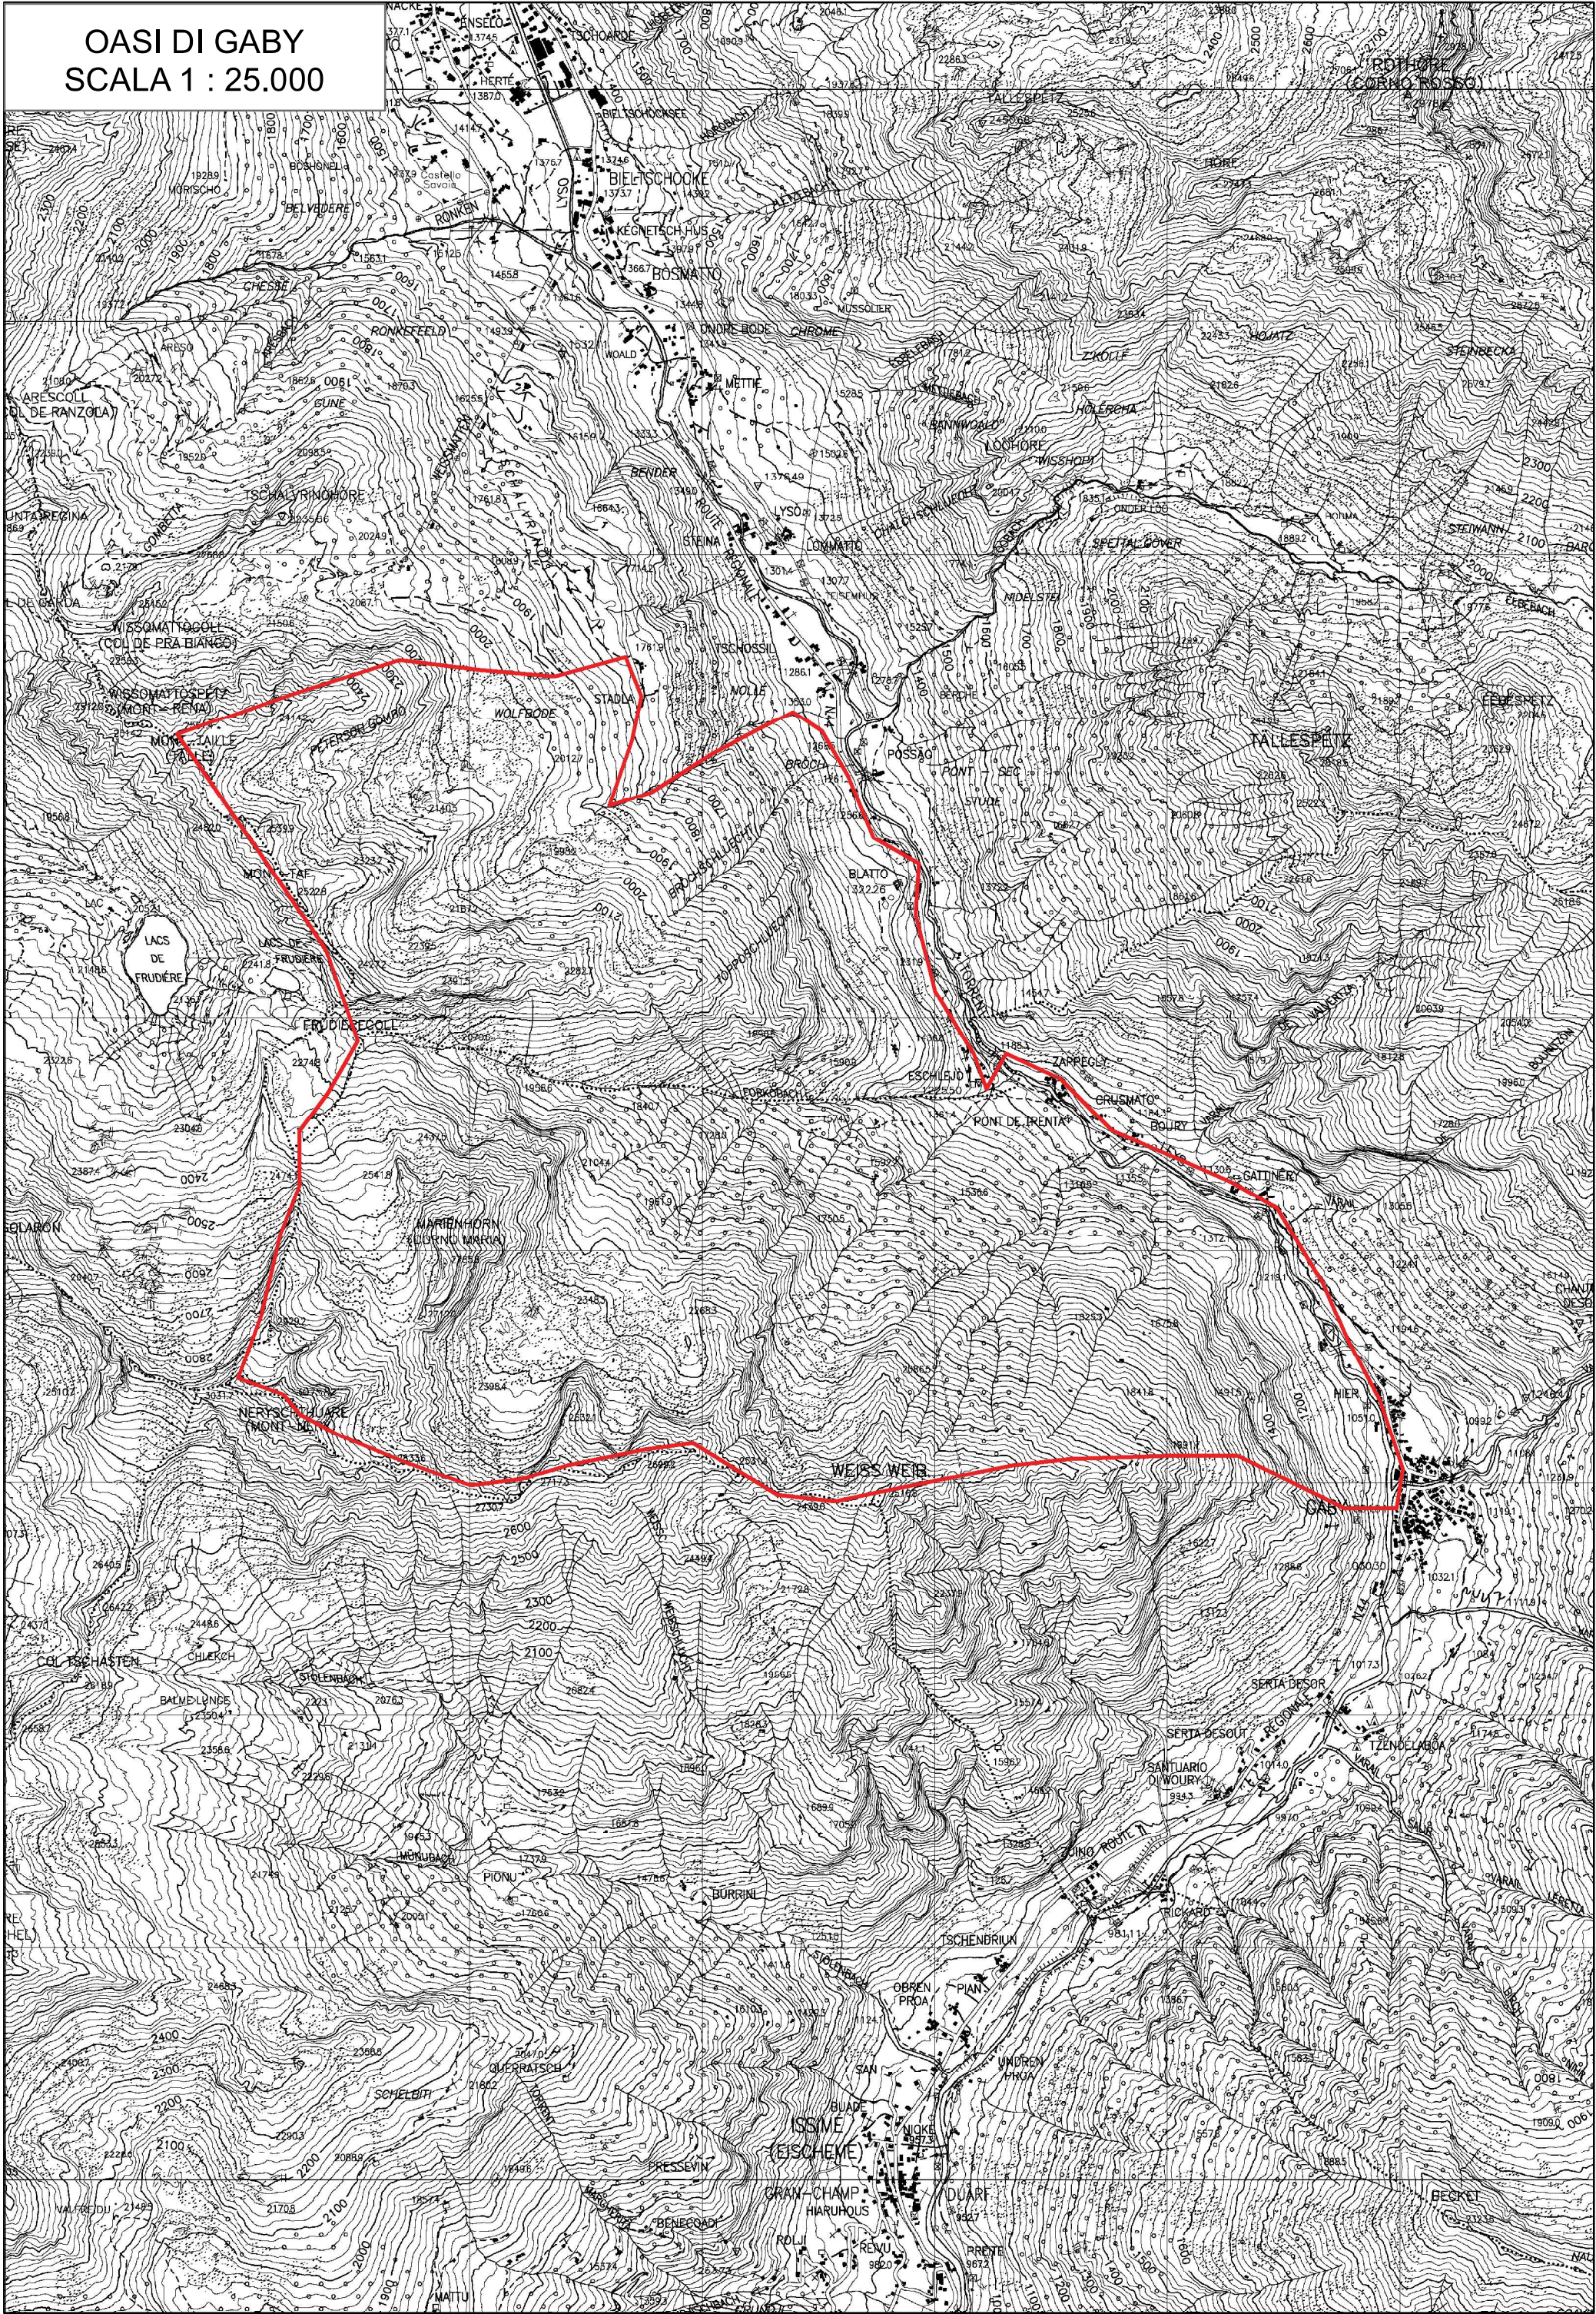

This is a detailed topographic map of the Oasi di Tirol region in Italy. The map features a grid system and a red boundary line that outlines a specific area of interest. The terrain is characterized by numerous contour lines indicating elevation, with peaks reaching up to 2174.41 meters. Key locations and features include:

- Geographical Features: The map shows a network of rivers and streams, including the Torrent de Tirol and the Torrent de Marmore. The area is also marked by various peaks and ridges, such as Mont-de-Châtelar and Châtelar-Désot.
- Settlements and Localities: Several towns and villages are depicted, including Betsoloz, Brusoney, Chancevella, Combiannaz, and Fiernoz. Other notable locations are Châtelar-Damon, Châtelar-Désot, and Châtelar.
- Infrastructure: The map includes a network of roads, with some labeled as "Route 1001" and "Route 1002". There are also several small bridges and tunnels indicated.
- Topography: The map is covered with a dense network of contour lines, providing a clear view of the terrain's elevation and slope. The highest points are marked with their respective elevations.

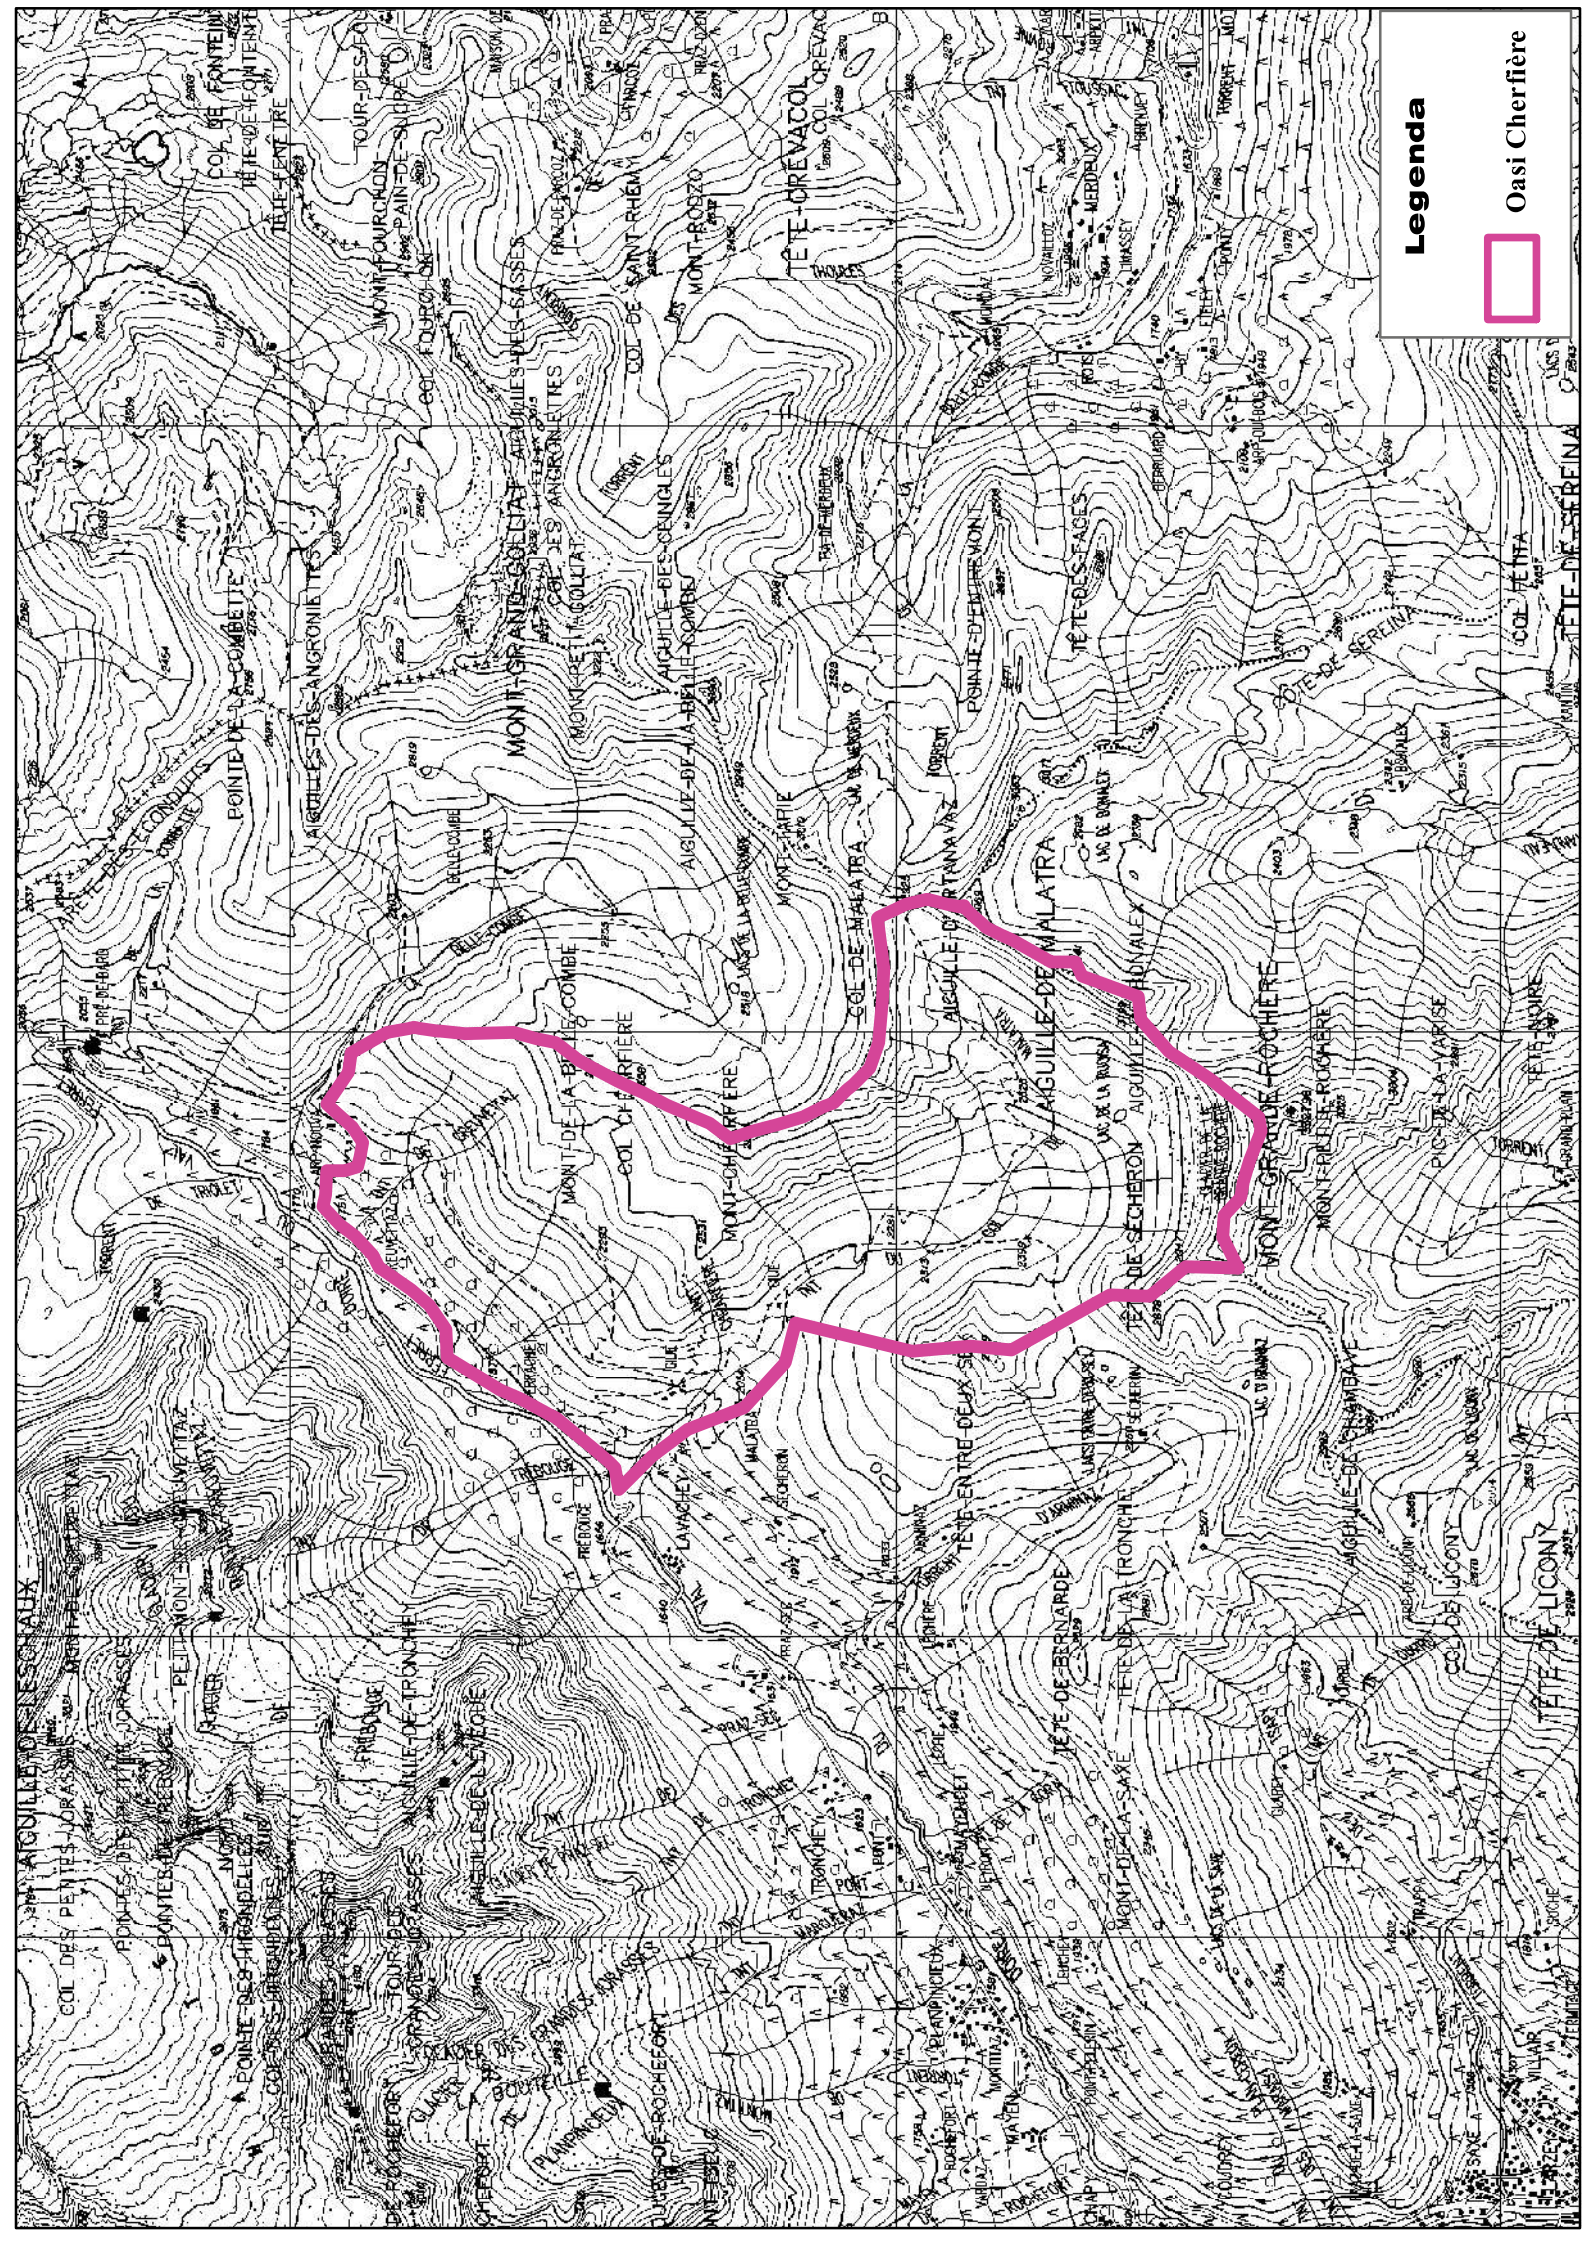

The red boundary line starts near Betsoloz, follows the course of the Torrent de Tirol, and then extends towards the east, passing through Fiernoz and ending near the town of Marmore. This boundary likely defines the extent of the Oasi di Tirol.
